WATER GAS.

Celebration of the Opening of the New Works.

A Novel Exhibition Followed by Novel Banquet.

Fuel and Illuminant Made from

Generally Voted a Grand Success the Gas is Manufactured and How Burns—A Revolution in Heat-

sumers' Gas Light, Heat and Power Com-pany in the new Thom' building, Main street near Fourth, a little company of newspaper men and congenial spirits as-sembled last evening. The occasion was a celebration of the completion of the works, designed to furnish gas by the Lowe process for heating, lighting and power purposes, This Times has referred to this enterprise from time to time and has given a full description of the process. The public un-from time to time and has given a full description of the process. The public understands that the gas is manufactured from water, a jet of steam being subjected to nearly 5,000 degrees of heat, when the oxygen and hydrogen disintegrate and the resulting composition is carbon mon-oxide and hydrogen. The gas is then passed through the usual cleansing process and to recei that a receiver.

The company assembled last evening included Prof. Thaddeus S. C. Lowe, inventor of the process, Capt. C. E. Thom, a stockholder in the local Company L. E. Mosher, Secretary and Treasurer, J. B. Quigley, Col. Ed Dunham and C. L. Schelifielin, stockholder in the local Company L. E. Mosher, Secretary and Treasurer, J. B. Quigley, Col. Ed Dunham and C. L. Schelifielin, stockholders, Dan Ullman, Superintendent, F. F. Ernst, book-keeper, J. M. Meredith, and the press was represented by E. F. Kubel. William Galer, O. A. Stephens, G. F. Hatton and W. A. Spalding. A letter of regret was received from Col. H. G. Otis. Nearly an hour was devoted to an examination of the heating, cooking and lighting appliances exhibited in the office, a full description of which must be deferred to another time. Sufficial that all pronounced it the greatest success for all uses to which it is applied. Appliances from a mere stand to sit in the dining-room and boil a kettle or heat a bunch un't on a extended range were shown.

it that all pronounced it the greatest sucpess for all uses to which it is applied. Appliances from a mere stand to sit in the lining-room and boil a kettle of heat a punch up to an extended range were shown.
Water was boiled in ten minutes, toast made in a minute, and other wonders of juick cookery were performed before the assembled guests. The gas of this manufacture is not itself highly illuminating, and in burning for light it is used with an incandescent filament surmounting the burner. It furnishes a white light, without a flicker and as bright as an electric light, out much softer.
After inspecting the burners and heaters, the party was driven to the company's works, on Seventh and Alameda streets, where the process of manufacture was inspected. A complete description of these works, which are built upon a most substantial and elaborate plan, is also of necessity deferred.

stantial and elaborate plan, is also of necessity deterred.

Returning to the office, the visitors were first shown the cooking of the repast, and then they sat down to as elaborate and elegant a banquet as has ever been served in Los Angeles. It was served by unine host Dunham of the Nadeau, under the personal supervision of Steward Frank Maynes, for twenty-one years connected with the Parker House, Boston, and now of the Nadeau. The cooking was under the supervision of Charles Phillips, chef of the Nadeau. The printed and decorated menus, the work of Steward Maynes, were models of elegance, and presented the following list of substantials and-delicacles:

BILL OF PARE.

and presented the following list of substantials and-delicacles:

Consomme a la Dauphine.
Smelts a la Tariare.
Thin fried potatoes,
Tenderloin steaks and champignons.
Lamb chops with Fronch peas,
Venison cuttets with currant jelly.
Quali on fost.
Tomatoes au gratin.
Baked white and swee potatoes,
Lady-ingers, Macaronis.
Apples, Muscatel grapes, pears.
Baked apple with cream.
Vanilla ice cream, chocolate ice cream,
Assorted nuts, layer raisins.
Coffee and champagne, of course.
The party discussed the good things until nearly midnight, and dispersed with a high appreciation of the new gas company, convivially and every other way.

The Company.

The Consumers' Gas Light, Heat and Power Company was organized November id, 1886, with the following officers: H. L. Macnell, president; E. Dunham, vice-president; L. E. Mosher, secretary and treasurer. The original board of directors were the above-named, together with H. Newmark and J. B. Guidley. Upon the departure of resignation, Jacob Loew was elected in his stead. The company has already expended over $140,000 and has laid seven miles of twelve-inch, eight-inch, six-inch and four-inch mains, over four miles of which are of the largest size. The contract for construction of the works was made in December of last year, and the work was begun the following April by the Lowe Manufacturing Company of Norristown, Pa., of which Prof. Thaddeus S. C. Lowe is president.

Prof. Lowe is the inventor of the only process of making water gas a commercial success. His first works were built at Conshohocken, Pa., in 1874. These works were for the manufacture of what is known as illuminating water gas. The Professor also built the works used in inflating the balloons used by the Army of the Potomac, and his great services to the Government as an aeronaut are a matter of history. Prof. Lowe saw from a balloon every battle in which the Army of the Potomac was engaged up to Gettysburg.

The first rule gas works were built at Lynn, Mass., and the works here are the third in point of sequence and the most extensive in the world, Los Angeles as usual keeping well at the front of the procession and very close behind the band.

The first run was made here on the 3d Instant. With the use of bituminous coaf (all previous works have used anthracite only), gas was made at the rate of 1000 feet per minute. The new gas will be sold to consumers for $1 per thousand cubic feet, which is one-third the price now being paid for gas in this city. The capacity of the works at present is a half million feet per day, and additions can be made to bring the output up to two million feet per day, as consumption increases. The company owns six acres of land at the location above mentioned, and has ample for this model fuel. The advantage to be derived from the introduction of this gas into any town are inestimable, especially on this Coast where the fuel tax is the heaviest known to the housekeeper or the manufacturer.

But not only as a fuel has this gas into any t company displays another invention of Prof. Lowe's which gives a very cheap and efficient light, the same being made by passing a current of the cheap fuel gas, first highly heated, over crystal carbon, evaporating the same by aid of the incandescent light which gives its own light and besides a 40 to 50-caudie light from each gas jet. These combined fixines are made in from four to twenty-four lights, the large size giving a far, brighter and steadier light than is to be made by any electric are light now in general use. They also display a combination light made by mixing fuel gas with the flame of an ordinary oil fixture without a chimney.

The directors and stockholders of the company are delighted with the work which has been done by the Lowe Coupany, and say that every promise they have made, either written or verbal, has been more than carried out. They therefore feel that when cities, as Toledo, O., did a few days ago, make a public demonstration over the introduction of natural gas, which is uncertain of constant supply, with an ex-President of the United States as orator of the day, how much more ought our citizens to rejoice at having a permanent supply of fuel gas, which will serve many uses that natural gas cannot, besides being always under control.

Miss Woolsteen's Sister Tells the Story.

The Chief of Police yesterday sent to San Francisco and Chicago a description of the supposed Harlan murderer. The description requests the authorities at these points to look for the man, who is either an accomplice or the actual murderer of "Doe" Harlan.

The girl Hattie Woolsteen is still under arrest, and is confined at police headquarters. Her sister Minnie is in constant attenance upon her, and is at her side day and night. Hattie cannot be seen by any on except the Chief of Police and some of his principal officers. Her sister was yesterday spoken to regarding her release upon habeas corpus proceedings. She stated that Hattie did not want to be released; that at the proper time good counsel would be cleared. As stated in yesterday's Times, on the morning of the supposed murder the girls, who had both been riding since the evening before, came home to their boarding house at No. 314 South Fort street at about 3 o'clock. They were along and looked flurried as they entered their rooms. The girl Hattie Woolsteen is still under arrest, and is confined at police headquarters. Her sister Minnie is in constant attenaance upon her, and is at her side day and night. Hattie cannot be seen by any one except the Chief of Police and some of his principal officers. Her sister was yesterday spoken to regarding her release upon habeas corpus proceedings. She stated that Hattie did not want to be released; that at the proper time good counsel would be employed and her sister would be cleared. As stated in yesterday's Trues, on the morning of the supposed murder the girls, who had both been riding since the evening before, came home to their boarding house at No. 514 South Fort street at about 3 o'clock. They were alone and looked flurried as they entered their rooms. A police official when yesterday questioned admitted to a Times reporter that Hattie Wolfsteen had made a statement to Darcy, but he would not say what the statement was; but the same reporter saw Minnie Wolfsteen and she gave the following information regarding the affair. On the day before the supposed murder Hattie and Harlan went riding together. It was a special appointment. Harlan had ingratiated himself into Hattie's affections and had become engaged for several months. Under a promise of marriage he accomplished his purpose and then acknowledged to her the truth; told her he could never right the wrong, as he was married already. That upon this particular day, Hattle had resolved to make fail the reparation in his power. He was probably under the influence of liquor and seemed despondent, and that upon her threat of exposure he drew a pistol from his poeter the body into the barn and then set it affect to hide, as she thought, all traces of the unfortunate occurrence.

As stated before, Darcy neither admits nor denies that such a statement has been made to him. When told that a writ of habeas corpus might be sworn out for Hattie Wolfsteen's benefit her stated that he was not afraid, he had conclusive evidence as to the woman's implicati

HASKELL-KNIGHT

A Lady Who Thinks She Has Been Robbed.

She Tells a Tough Story on a Real-Estate Man.

Accuses Him of Selling Her Property and Using the Money.

Jail-His Side of the Story as lated to a "Times" Re-

On Wednesday afternoon last, a lady, giving her name as Mrs. Knight, went to Deputy District Attorney Harrison and asked him to draw up a complaint for her against one Charles Haskell, a well-known real-estate dealer of this city, as she wanted to have him arrested on a charge of embezzlement. Her story was about as follow:

This was an extortionate fee for the little-work he had performed, but under the circumstances I paid it and let the matter drop from my mind.

A few days ago, however, at feast not long ago, I discovered that instead of selling the Tustin property for the amount he represented, he had received for it $0000, and had certainly pocketed the balance after paying me what he did. This I considered was adding insuit to injury, so losing all patience with him I came to the conclusion to have the man arrested for embezzlement. Whether or not he heard of the fact I cannot say, but he has now left tience with him I came to the conclusion to have the man arrested for embezziement. Whether or not he heard of the fact I cannot say, but he has now left town and cannot be found anywhere, therefore, If you will make out the complaint, I will have a warrant issued on it and send the officers after him."

The warrant was issued and put in the hands of Ed Smith, but Haskell could not be found either yesterday or the day before. Mrs. Knight, the complaining withness, would not offer a reward for the man's arrest, so there was nothing for the officers to do but to institute inquiries as to his whereabouts and await further developments.

to do but to institute inquiries as to his whereabouts and await further developments.

Last night, having reasons for believing that Mr. Haskell was in the city, a Times reporter started out, and after a still hunt of a few minutes, discovered the gentleman in company with E. W. Giddings, an old settler of this part of the State, and a warm friend of the man accused of embezziement. As the reporter approached Mr. Haskell he asked that person if he knew a warrant was out for his arrest under the charge mentioned, and Mr. Haskell stated that he was then on his way to the office of the constable to give himself up, having heard he was wanted, but not knowing for what crime. The reporter told him the charge made against him, and with a laugh Mr. Haskell said:

"I am just in from a camping trip out to the mountains, and, as you see, am hardly dressed fit to hold a levee with Justice, but rather than have to stand the ignominy of a public arrest, I am going at once to the constable and surrender myself. Am I innocent of the crime of embezzlement? Well, I hope so. I have expected some sort of a row with Mrs. Knight for some time past, as we have not been friends lately, and have had several little spats of no particular consequence. As regards the charge she has put against me, I can tell you that I am not in the least afraid of being held on it. If you want my story you can have it, as I would a little rather have it straight at the in the least arraid of Deling held on it.

Fully thirty minutes was consumed in getting off in this race. At every effort to move Hazel would run a hundred yards, and it required all the coaxing of the rider, assisted by a man leading, to get him back with the rost of the horses. When a start was finally made the race was very interesting, the 2-year-olds running with a will. Rosedale had the pole and some advantage at the start. Coming down the lane Kildare took the outside, and would have made it very warm for the winner had the course been a few yards longer. As it was, Rosedale came in a length in advance leading Typesetter by about the same distance, Kildare a very good third. Hazel and Nettle Washington came in in the order named. Time 1:04.

The next event was a walk over for Rodgers, R. Barnes, driver. Rodgers is a handsome dark brown, and the trot was to carn his entrance money. In this class there were eight nominations, nearly all being horses from the North. The climatic changes characteristic of the Northern Clitus Belt is too much even for horses, and Rodgers was left alone to compete for the prize.

South Pasadena claims the famous Raymond Hotel and two other creditable hostelries—the "Lightfoot" and the "Marengo," besides a goodly number of private residences, but South Pasadena is not yet able to accommodate all of the strangers within her gates. The cottages will be of different sizes and styles, so as to suit all tastes and capacities.

The number of persons who now ive in South Pasadena and are live in South Pasadena and are patrons of the daily accommodation trains to and from this city is very large and is constantly increasing. South Pasadena is taking a long-headed course to catch the overflow of population from Los Angeles. We hope to see other suburban towns, and, indeed, the new suburbs of this city proper imitating the example of South Pasadena. The crying want of this section is houses. From Santa Barbara to Riverside the complaint is the same. People cannot find places in which to stop. This being the case, it is not much wonder if a good many of them move on. Prof. Lowe and his associates are certainly to be congratulated on scorng a great success.

No Hay Fever.

A letter was received by THE TIMES few days ago from a gentleman in the East, asking whether the peculiar disease known there as hay fever exists As our experience with this sort of thing had been mainly with a snuffling contemporary or two, and we couldn't tell whether that was hay fever or Times fever, we referred the matter to a physician. Thus, we find that the subject was carefully discussed by Dr. Walter Lindley in the July number of the Southern (2014). here and whether the climate of Cali-Walter Lindley in the July number of the Southern California Practitioner, and, for the benefit of our correspond ent, as well as other people East and West, who would like to be informed

"I recently received a letter from an attorney in St. Louis, Mo., asking me if hay fever was prevalent in Southern California. That set me to thinking, and before I had turned from my desk, after reading the letter, a man came in for advice for his child and casually remarked that he suffered every year for twenty years before he came here. 'What was the matter?' I asked. He said hay asthma, and that he had now been here three years without a symptom of his old trouble.

"I then recalled several similar cases that had come to my knowledge in my eleven years' practice in Los Angeles, and the fact dawned upon me that I had not seen or known of hay fever in Southern California. Desiring to inform myself, and also hoping to develop some facts that would be of value to the public, I immediately wrote to fitty physicians, asking the following questions: I. Have you known any cases of hay fever that developed in Southern California? 2. Have you known any cases that came to Southern California and were cured by the change? 3: Have you known any cases that came to Southern California and were not benefited? 4. How many years have you been practicing in Southern California?"

Of these four report an aggregate of ten cases cured, while the other eight reporters say 'several,' many,' a goodly number,' etc. One reports many cases of perfect cure, and a limited number who have had the disease alleviated only. The other twenty-one reporters in Los Angeles county report no cases coming here but have been cured. Of those cases of hay fever that have come to Southern California on account of this disease all have been of the most intractable character. One reports a single case that is affected by proximity to orange blossoms, tuberose or magnolia, but is otherwise not affected. In addition to the mere answering of my questions Dr. John C. Kerr of Pasadena writes: I think you will find it the universal opinion of all physicians that hay fever does not prevail in Southern California."

WONDERS OF SURGERY.

A Great and Radical Revolution in the Science.

[Youths' Companion.]

Medicine has made a wonderful advance within a century. The books of a prominent Vermont doctor recorded from 1773 to 1790 a total of 4271 visits, in which he administered 1630 doses of physic. It is estimated also that he drew from his patients during the same period about a hogshead full of blood. Nor was the only fault of the medical practice of that time one of excess. In multitudes of cases the physic was the reverse of what was needed. This doctor's practice was not exceptional. The change since that time amounts to a revolution.

The change since that time amounts to a revolution.

The advance in surgery has been still greater. The power of anæsthetics to render operations painless, and the power of disinfectants to prevent all suppuration, have enabled experts to secure marvelous results.

A few years ago the most skillful surgeons shrank from all operations that involved the opening of the abdomen. Now the abdomen is freely and safely opened for difficult operations. Says Sir Willam Stokes, in the Lancet, in view of what has already been done in experiments on animals and in diseases of chest in man: "It is no wild flight of fancy to anticipate the time when a diseased lung may be found amenable to operative treatment."

He makes a similar remark in reference to the brain, kidneys, liver and spleen:

SENATOR SUMNER.

SENATOR SUMNER.

His Kindly Good Nature and Quiet Playfulness.

[Edmund Alton in St. Nicholas.]

Senator Sumner took quite an interest in me, and had an especial fondness for catching me by the ears. Often have I attempted to pass the Senator while he was walking to and fro on the floor of the Senate, only to have both my ears selzed good-naturedly, and to be asked some kindly question. I shall always remember one of these adventures—for it was an adventure. He had sent me on an errand. Having returned, reported to him the answer and received his deep-voiced thanks. I started to move away, but he had caught me, and continued his slow march—I in front—Indian file. As he was a tall man and I a very small boy in comparison, I had to walk on tiptoe to ease the pain, and even then it seemed as if my ears would come off my head.

The worst of it was that he at once became so lost in thought that he forgot that he had hold of me, and mechanically paced up and down, with his long strides, while I danced a mild war-dance, for some minutes—it seemed to be hours—to the intense amusement of all who observed it. The more I struggled, the more did I increase the agony, but at last managed to wriggle away from his grasp. The sudden "emptiness" of his hand caused him to realize the state of affairs, and he begged my pardon so energetically, and the spectators smiled so audibly, that the proceedings of the Senate were interrupted and Mr. Colfax actually had to tap with his gavel to restore order!

But it was, after all, an honor to be noticed, even in that fashion, by so distinguished a man as Senator Sumner. He had the widest reputation of any of the Senators, and the first question most visitors to the Senate would ask was: "Which is Charles Sumner?"

An explosion followed which shattered the door and side of the car into splinters. The agent was dazed and badly frightened by the shock, but was uninjured. Mr. Depew said to an Associated Press representative that the young man who interviewed him in St. Louis totally failed to catch the drift of his remarks. He had spoken somewhat disparagingly of the land speculation fever, and said that he thought that railroad construction in the Northwest this season was somewhat ahead of the country's requirements. "But," he added, "there is no more danger of a naule than there is of an earthquake in this depot."

public lands have been subjected through improvident laws and the inefficient methods of their administration, and to which they are still exposed under the present wasteful and traud-inspiring system of disposal. The operations of the past year, as previously, have been conducted under the discouragement of inadequate appropriations, but with the limited means at their disposal, he says results have been achieved that confirm the early statement of the vastness of these fields of reform, the confines only of which have been fairly explored.

Commissioner Sparks' annual report shows that since March 4, 1885, 31,824,480 acres have been restored to the public domain. The sales, entries and selections for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1887, embrace 25,111,400 acres, and of Indian lands 744,600 acres in excess of 4,802,500 compared with the fiscal year of 1885. Receipts from disposals of public lands were $10,783,600, and increase of the year 1886 of 3,733,400 acres in excess of 4,802,500 compared with the fiscal year of 1885. Receipts from disposals of public lands were $10,783,600, and $12,260,300, an increase over 1886 of $5,237,-700 compared with the fiscal year 1885, of $5,237,-700 compared with the fiscal year 1885, of $5,237,-700 compared with the fiscal year 1885, of $5,248,600, to which is to be added $80,300 on account of timber depredations, and $12,500 for certified copies of records, making the total receipts from all sources $12,290,000.

"Replying to your favor of the 12th inst., asking as to my intention in regard to the forfeited bond of D. J. Creighton, I would say that as I am informed by my counsel I am under no legal liability whatever on that bond. We are sureties for the appearance of Creighton at his trial. We performed all our undertakings when we produced him before the court and jury for trial, and after his conviction the responsibility which we had assumed as sureties up to that time was transferred to Hon. J. A. Sullivan, Judge of the Superior Court, whom the taxpayers of this county elected to protect their rights and to see that no felon escaped, and if by any act of said Judge—whether occurring through carelessness or negligence, or by any other reason—a criminal duly convicted of one of the most infamous crimes known to the law has been permitted to escape we do not believe that either in law or equity we should be compelled to pay for his negligence. I am ready at all times to pay any legitimate obligation which may be held against me, but I must decline to permit myself to be mulcted in any such sum as the penalty of Creighton's bond by reason of the carelessness and recklessness of the men whom the people of this State have trusted to proceet them and their property in all emergencies. An Active Member of a Local Union Arrested in San Francisco. Deputy Constable Fred Smith, who went up to San Quentin on Wednesday last to take to the penitentiary Cunningham, who was sentenced a few days since to three years, will on his return be accompanied by Albert Charles Morrison, who is wanted here for the crime of embezzlement. It seems that Morrison is a member of the residing in this city but a few months. He seemed to be a decent kind of a young man, and soon made hinself very popular among the boys.

Morrison was also a very active member of the union, and attended all the meetings, was well posted in relation to the constitution and bylaws of the society. He was accordingly entrusted with considerable business to be done in the meetings for the members who were so placed as to be unable to attend personally. Among other things he was 'entrusted by a number with their monthly dues and fees, which he was expected to hand to the treasurer to be placed to the credit of the parties who so paid him.

This went on all right until last week, when some of the members who had not been in attendance at the meetings for several sessions, but had given Morrison their money to pay for them discovered to their disgust that he had not done so, but had pocketed the cash. Morrison was taxed with his perfidy and solemnly promised to make good the amount the next day, the defalcations then discovered amounting to but a few dollars. The next day Morrison was seen by J. C. Lindstrom, a waiter in the Wieland beer saloon on South Spring street, who asked him to return a watch belonging to Lindstrom, which Morrison had borrowed some weeks ago to carry, as he stated, while his own was being repaired. Lindstrom had repeatedly asked for the watch, but on every occasion, under some excuse, Morrison had stood him off withpromises. That was the last seen of the gay and festive Morrison in this city.

Lindstrom discovering that his watch and chain had gone with Morrison on a long journey, commenced to complain about it, and so arousing suspicion, it was found that Morrison had also taken a large sum of money he had been paid by various parties to pay for them into the union. Lindstrom seeme to San Francisco among other places, the man was there arrested, and Ed Smith was telegraphed to to send after him. Henry Gibbs, the East Los Angeles man who had assaulted the Salvation Army nuisances, was fined 85.

In the afternoon Emil Hartung, who is a saloon-keeper on the corner of Hays and Hoff streets, was charged by Fred Nirk with having committed a battery on his person. The evidence proved that Nirk, who is a great big fat man, was drunk in the defendant's saloon, and on being refused more liquor, got out into the street and hurled a brick and some foul cylitheta at the proprietor. Hartung went out with the intention of telling Nirk to go home, when that gentleman promptly challenged the defendant, who is a very small man, to come out and fight. Hartung went out, but in making his first pass Nirk was so drunk that he stumbled and fell to the ground, badly bruising his face and eye in the fall. In his maudlin condition he imagined that had been struck, and so swore out a complaint. Hartung was discharged.

Just as the court was about to adjourn in the afternoon a man named Bigge, living in East Los Angeles, swore out a complaint stated had struck him and kicked him severely. A warrant was issued and the man arrested, and his trial will come up to-day.

CONSUMPTION, Together with diseases of the EYE, EAR AND HEART, M. HILTON WILLIAMS, M.D.

No. 275 North Main Street, A few doors south of the new postoffice, Los Angeles, Cal.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED. This has been demonstrated in thousands of cases treated by DR. WILLIAMS, With his new system of Medicated Inhalations combined with proper constitutional remedies for the liver, stomach, blood, etc.

Probably no system of practice ever adopted has been so universally successful as that introduced by Dr. Williams for the our of Catarth, Throat Diseases, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

CATARRH.

and Consumption.

Catarrh is often regarded by the patient as a cold in the head, and he often expresses his astonishment at his remarkable tendency to contract a fresh cold; indeed, he declares that he is sourcely free from one cold before he takes another, and oet he is always exceedingly energil; it is also a matter of surprise to him that the cold always seems to settle in the head and three mones of Catarrh may seem to shate, and the patient is led to hope that the disease is about to wear off; but snother class of symptoms soon appears, and he learns to his horror that instead of recovery from the disease, it is somewhat changed in its character and has extended to the throat. A sense of weariness is sometimes felt in reading, speaking or singing, hoarseness at times occurs, a sensation of dryness is folt in the throat, or it appears that some oreign substance, as, for instance, a hair, obtructed the throat, there becomes a sense of languor and fatigue, the breath lessens upon a little exertion, a short, backing cough, a peculiar sound in clearing the throat, a feel-but the chest to breathe; these and other symptoms occur after the disease has made considerable progress. Then it is a time when consumption is about to begin its dreafful work. Up to this time the progress of the disease may have been slow, and the patient may, in expressing his confident hope that it will "wear off," declare that he has had the catarrh for years, and has not seemed to become much off," declare that he has had the catarrh for years, and has not seemed to become much worse, and trusts that he will "by-and-by" receiver. But this delusion is the grand error which has peopled our cemeteries with consumption.

By the employment of proper inhalation the form of medicated vapor (not steam or spray) we are able to produce immediate and direct action upon the diseased surface in the pharnyx and masal passages, for air will find its way into the most remote and intricate cavicies, where it is utterly impossible to make fluid applications. By these means every can be cured.

Persons desiring treatment by this system of practice can use the remedies at home as well as at our office, and which will cause no inconvenience or hindrance to business whatever.

I have seen so many of these cases cured that I do not consider any case hopeless unless both lungs are seriously involved. Judge Hutton Decides That the Sale

Was Not Legal.

Judge Hutton yesterday delivered his epinion in the famous thirty—minute San in ranch auction sale. It will be red that A. E. Davis and D. Smith bled in the office of the trustees of the cty, and there while Mr. Bicknell, of w firm of Bicknell & White, held his watch, D. Smith, under a previous agree-ment with Davis that the highest bidder at the end of thirty minutes, should have the property, procured it, he having outbid his dwal by several hundred dollars. Davis, on rival by several hundred dollars. Davis, on the contrary, claims his bid was higher by 3000 than Smith's, and to complete the intreacy of this legal problem, the widow who was chiefly interested, the property being a part of the estate of her deceased husband, claimed that the sale altogether was illegal and without her consent.

The interested parties and their friends lited Judge Hutton's controom yesterday, to hear his decision in the case. The decision grants the widow's application to set the sale aside and give the ranch back into possession of the trustees. The ranch will now be legally sold, unless Davis takes an appeal and Judge Hutton's decision is reversed. At the last sale the property was knocked down to A. E. Davis for $1,380,000, Smith claiming his bid to have been $1,385,000.

THE BEST CITRUS LAND IN THE STATE

Offered for sale in twenty-acre blocks, and can be bought in five, ten, fifteen or twenty-acre subdivisions

Lytle Creek Water Piped on Each Lot.

Avenues 150 Feet in Width Traverse the Tract.

Water Furnished from a Covered Cement Ditch

This land lies on the elevated plain directly west of San Bernardino city. The plain is a vast elevated table-land, with just enough of gentle undulation to break the monotony of the landscape.

Owing to the elevation, frost is practically unknown. Flowers in myriads oom during the winter, the tenderest tomato sprigs are unscathed by frost and the orange blossoms bloom in beauty throughout the winter. The view is one of the noblest and most picturesque in Nature. Each twentyacre lot has a fine road at each end.

There are 29,000 acres in this tract, but 10,000 acres only are as yet sur eyed. The town, RIALTO, is located near the center of this 10,000-acre tract and on the California Central.

The California Central and the Southern Pacific both traverse this great tract, and in all probability the Southern Pacific's parallel route will soon add a third railroad to this princely citrus tract. The western line of the tract is about two miles distant from the San Bernardino Courthouse.

The plain grows as fine oranges as the world has ever seen and the finest quality of citrus fruit generally, as buyers can see for themselves. There is no better raisin grape land in California. In fact all sub-tropical production flourish to perfection.

low the Sheep-Kings Get in Ther

LAGUNA, (N.M.), Oct. 5.—[Staff corre spondence of The Times.] Grants was never so lively before in all its history as during the last month. When we got there sheep-shearing had been going on for three weeks, and 150,000 woolly little trotters had weeks, and 150,000 woolly little trotters had been driven into the corrals fat and rotund, only to emerge a few hours later the shabby shadows of their former selves, and perhaps patched with unpleasant crimson nicks. There was still a week to go, and another 50,000 sheep to shear. The wool crop is very large this year all through the Territory; and more big sheep-owners drove their sheep to Grants to shear than ever before. Some have driven all the way from Los Lunas—just why, I don't know, unless for the sake of companionship. The Navajoes shear but once a year, but the Mexicans twice; and as this half-year's crop will make a shipment of 500,000 pounds of wool from the little station of Grants, you can imagine that the industry is a big one in Inagine that the industry is a big one in New Mexico.

Having renewed our pleasant friendships, we grappled with the camera again and trolled over to the shearing. An irregularly circular corrai, of perhaps 150 feet in diameter, had been built by cribbing ties, and in this enclosure were then 2250 sheep. Three-quarters of the area was covered by a dense mass of huddled wool. It seemed impossible that living creatures could be so closely packed. A mosse tossed upon their backs would have to run across to the fence before he could reach the ground—he couldn't get down between them. Then in a crescent half way around them was a so-to-speak clear place. That is, it could be walked about in. In each angle of the sinuous fence was a man. Perhaps he was shoving his shears up and down a smooth rock to sharpen them, or perhaps digging away at a protesting victim. There were fifty-seven shearers in that corral—Mexicans from San Rafael, San Mateo, Los Lunas, Los Cinces and all around; and Indians from Laguna, El Rito and Isleta. There were also cighty other shearers in those. Each shearer had his own number, which for all the season took the place of his name. He had his own particular corner, too, upon which none of his compadies would think of permanently encroaching. Soon as the sun pokes his head above the Black Mesa the work beglins. With shouts and cardioes, and flying sticks, the flock, which has been driven down from the hills, is turned in toward the corral. The little band of yoats serve as pilots, and make it possible to get their more burry friends into the enclosure. It is a pretty sight to see that compact, woolly army come inching down the slope, in a big, round, white mass, the outside ones running around and around the others, so that the base of the big disc is a revolving wheel of twinkling white legs. At last the 1000 or so of bleating victims are in the corral, leaving the goats to scamper off again to their grass. The sheep all crowd up to one side of the yard, with their backs to the for. Then each pencil. Down the left side of the card runs a row of numbers, each with its own particular inper running across to the further side of the page; and on each line is a row of upright lines, each four of them crossed diagonally by the fifth. Every few seconds come loud cries from the various corners of the yard. "Veinte-uno," "Cuarania-seis," "Numero-siete" and so on for quantity. It means in each case that the shearer whose number is given has finished a sheep; and for each such cry the scorer's pencil makes a little mark spoosite the proper number. The shearers, by the way, do not get their pay until the shearing is all done. If they were paid weekly, they would all be off on a toot at the end of the first week, and then where would the sheep kings be for their wol? When his six or eight victims are all shorn, the shearer unties them, and they go skipping back to their companions—perhaps feeling, asthey certainly look, like a parcet of school-boys whose clothes have been stolen while they were swimming. If there is any forforner-looking object than a shorn lamb, I don't want to see it. And at that allitude—Grants is 6513 feet above the sea level—the dwindled wool-wearers must be pretty anxious for that proverbial tempering of the wind.

altitude—Grants is 513 feet above the seal level—the dwindled wool-wearers must be pretty anxious for that proverbial tempering of the wind.

By this time the shearer is dragging back more kicking victums and tying them, while a stanted Mexican is gathering up the fleeces in a big sheet of burlap, and carrying them to the packers, who tread the wool down in huge sacks hung on frames. A couple of little Mexican boys, too, walk back and forth, each armed with a wisp of greasewood twigs, brushing stray locks of wool back into the angles of the corral with the fleeces. When down from the frame, sewed up, weighed, marked with its weight—averaging 240 to 260 pounds—and the monogram or brandmark of the owner; and is rolled over to the railroad track. Then when the sun has fallen behind the Continental Divide, all hands quit the corral, push a long string of box-cars up, and load in the wool.

Meanwhile, nearly all day long, bloodier but equally important work has been going on outside the corral. The shearers must eat; and for a ranchero who has 40,000 or 50,000 sheep, what so cheap and handy to feed them on as carner of So, while the multitudinous click of the shearers kils the bright, trare air, two stout Isleta Indians are kept busy butchering fat young sheep, hanging them to a tall post and dressing them. Close by are the greasy kettles and smouldering camp fires of the shearers, who seem to eat a terrific lot. I thought I was a pretty fair single-handed eater, but these fellows could give me one and then down me, just too easy. This is an awfully dull description of a powerfully interesting seene; but after three very fine meals, a long and tolerably hard day's work—including a three hours ride atop a trunk over a road as rough as a plowed field, and writing in a room where three people are trying to see which can talk fast enough and loud enough to knock the telegraph ticker silly—it isn't so easy to say what you would like to. There is too much prosperity about it. A little sleeping in wet blankets under a rock, makes one feel like writing, and stirs the blood a little; but this is too tame. Well, the sheep-shearing was funor us, anyway, if I can't make it so for you. We watched it most of the time we were at Grant's, which was three days, and used up enough plates on it to load a small burro. There ought to be some mighty good May bridge attitudes in some of those instantaneous pictures I got, showing the quaint seene from all sides, and at all times, from

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

That Indian Problem.
A VERDE CORRESPONDERT WHO SUSTAINS GEN. MILES' PLAN.
VERDE VALLEY (Ariz.), Oct. 7.—[To the Editor of The Times.] In the controversy now going on in this part of Arizona rela-tive to the proposition of the military com-mander of Arizona to place a few Mojave Indians on the Verde military reserve, the Governor of Arizona, in his letter to the Secretary of the Interior, dated August 16, 1887, and published in the Prescott Courier of September 30, 1887, makes such misstate-ments that it would be well to present for Governor of Arizona, in his letter to the Secretary of the Interior, dated August 16, 1887, and published in the Prescott Courier of September 30, 1887, makes such misstatements that it would be well to present, for Gen. Miles' consideration, the truth.

I will only speck from personal knowledge of twenty-six miles of the valley from the Box Cafion, up the river that distance.

The population is not more than 400; not, as the Governor states, 1000. The ranches number fifty or less, not more; the Governor says 400. These fifty control or occupy nearly all the tillable land, with the exception of the military reserve, in the valley. The cattle owned in the valley can be stated as 5000 and 500 horses. The Governor says 50,000 cattle and 3000 horses graze there. Probably more graze there than the number owned, as several large cattle owners and associations are to the north and east of the valley. These companies, supported by the hostility of the Courier to Gen. Miles, influence the Governor in the action he has taken against the settlement of the Indians here, and hope that their opposition to the General's scheme may cause the abandonment of the reserve and and enable them to grab it.

Nothing is said by the Governor (Courier) as 'to the feelings of many inhabitants of the valley, who are now in favor of the movement proposed, and who, without consideration of the known hostility of the Courier, or frightened by the bugaboo "Apache," so unsparingly used by that paper, were at first opposed to the movement.

The General knows all about false reports and the character of Arizona papers for truth. If, in his opinion, the welfare of these wards of the Governor to name the should be upheld in hislaction by the authorities. No doubtiple can vouch that the character of the Indians is and has been such since their removal from this valley as not injure the present settlers.

I challenge the Governor to name the eleven distinct settlements, or ta-make aplural postoffice or church. The Verder River does not rise in the Sa

MT. WASHINGTON.

HOW THE SIGNAL SERVICE MEN PASS AWAY THE TIME.

Carrying the Mails Under Difficulty -Beauty of the Frostwork-In tense Cold and Tremendous Wind -Mishaps of Private Cahill.

[Cor. Boston Herald.]
The station on Mt. Washington is commanded by Sergt. Beals. He has as assistant observer Private Cahill. Besides these there is a cook. These Hesides these there is a cook. These three men live there alone nine months of the year. In the autumn they lay in a stock of provisions which lasts until the following July. In fact, their life is similar to that led by keepers of off-shore lighthouses, only the cold is much greater at Mt. Washington, and the wind blows there with greater velocity than at any lighthouse. The work of these men, though constant, is not, as a rule, severe. They have, however, certain duties which are both dangerous and unpleasant, such as replacing the anemometers, carrying the mails to the base, and reading the raingauge in cold and windy weather. The anemometer is on the top of the peaked root, and when the temperature is low and the weather foggy, the frostwork forms so rapidly that the cups have to be taken down every two hours. To do this is sometimes almost an impossibility. To stand with the wind above seventy miles an hour is difficult, and, when the velocity is over 100, to hold on to the roof and change the cup, is an operation that requires both strength and courage.

The men sometimes have hard work to carry the mails, for, with a strong wind, they have often to crawl on their hands and knees over the ice-covered trestle-work. There are two supply depots between the summit and the base of the mountain, and in these the mail-carriers can find shelter and food when overtaken by a storm. On several occasions they have been obliged to pass one or two nights under these rude coverings until relief was sent. At the upper depot the carriers in descending change their ice-creepers for snow-shoes, and in ascending leave their snow-shoes and substitute ice-creepers. It is usual for one of the men to go down to Fabyan's every fortnight, so that each one leaves the station only once in six weeks. The rest of the time they are cooped up in the little house, for the ground is so rough and the wind so high and the cold so severe that they soon lose all desire for more exercise than they are obliged to take.

It may be asked how the three men live there alone nine months of the year. In the autumn they lay severe that they soon lose all desire for more exercise than they are obliged to take.

It may be asked how the signal men pass the long winter months. In the first place, they take five observations a day, three of which are telegraphed to Washington. At the end of each month and year the work has to be arranged and sent to the chief office at Washington. This last duty takes some time and great care. For amusement the men play cards for sulphur matches instead of money, and various games, such as checkers, etc. Private Cahill often enlivens the house with the violin, or frightens the cats by sounding the bugle calls. The greatest dissipation is to pop corn.

The first two days we were on the mountain were foggy, but the beauty of the frostwork fully compensated us for the loss of the view. This frostwork is formed by the fog being frozen, and every object exposed to the weather becomes covered with delicate white feathers from an inch to a foot long. After long continued fog and cold these feathers sometimes grow to enormous size. The telegraph wires look like long lines of fringe, only the feathers point toward the wind. The plain little signal station has the appearance of a most beautiful frosted cake. Indeed, everything is covered with frestwork, so that the mountain, even when there is no snow, is of a dazzling whiteness.

One may sit, at home and laugh at there is no snow, is of a dazzling whiteness.

One may sit at home and laugh at the cold of Mt. Washington, or one may go up and down in a thaw and still be skeptical, but let such a person walk along the railroad, with the wind blowing seventy miles an hour and the thermometer 20 below zero, and I think every doubt will be dispelled. The temperature does not go lower there than in many other places, but the wind blows with a greater velocity than at any known place in the world, and, with a strong wind, the cold is unbearable. A velocity of 180 miles an hour has been attained by the wind for Mt. Washington, while at Pike's Peak, 8000 feet higher, the greatest velocity is 100 miles, and in Boston forty-five miles is a heavy gale. Of course the air has less power as the density decreases, and it has been estimated that four miles at sea level is equal to five at a level of 6000 feet. But even with this reduction the velocity at Mt. Washington is extraordinary. The cold is so intense that if one covers up every part of his body, leaving only the eyes exposed, they are soon coated with frost which closes the lids and often makes it impossible to see. lids and often makes it impossible to see.

The signal men have had various narrow escapes while carrying the mails to and from the base. On one cccasion, Private Cahill started down the railroad Private Cahill started down the railroad on a sled of his own construction, none of the regular sledges having beer left at the summit. He went as far as the place called Jacob's Ladder, and theretake were found insufficient to retard a velocity of almost a mile a minute, and the sled jumped the track. Cahill was shot off on to the rocks below, where he rolled over and over, breaking his leg in two places and cutting his head severely. Here he lay, almost dead from cold and loss of blood, until the Sergeant, not being apprised by telegraph of his arrival below, sent the cook down to see what had happened. Sergt. Weals had ordered the cook to cut the wire and signal to him if Cahill was seriously hurt. The cook did so, and then spliced the wire. The Sergeant knowing that a dangerous accident had taken place telegraphed to the base and to Fabyan's or assistance. The trackmen immediately went up the railroad with two sledges, and, with great difficulty, carried the wounded man to the base where a wagon was procured and he was taken to Fabyan's. The unfortinate observer had lost his cap in his fall, and to keep his head warm the mall bag had been put over it. This, of course, covered the weather reports in the bag with blood, but notwithstanding that, they were sent on to Washington, where they are now said to be kept as evidence of the trials which the observers have to undergo.

Private Cabill, who seems to have as many lives as a cat, recovered and lived to be struck by lightning last summer while sitting at his desk in the signal station. He saw the wires flash, and thought he was to be killed, but after a few seconds, seeing that he was till of this world, and remembering his former experience, hetried to move. This he could do, and with the exception of a slight paralysis in one side, which lasted a few minutes, he was unhurt.

The Santa Fe Hallroad Company are largely interested in the new town of Santa Fe Springs, at Fulton Wells. Consequently, all the projected improvements will be rapidly pushed until completed. This is the only resort withjected improvements with the rapper passive until completed. This is the only resort within seventy miles of Los Angeles where first-class medicinal springs are found. 'It will, therefore, always be filled with health-seekers. The enterprising firm of Byram & Poindexter have secured 200 acres immediately adjoining the best side of this town of Santa Fe Springs, and will sell no town lots at all. They offer it only in blocks of from four to ten acres, at low acre prices, on easy terms. This gives buyers an opportunity to make handsome villa homes or small farms, just beside a railroad depot, handsome new botel and other tensive improvements. ome of the Cases Undertaken by the Organization in New York—How Male Swindlers Are Brought to Terms—The Compinints.

[New York Sun.]
A pretty, dark-eyed girl, with a delicate face which was not less attractive because of some traces of sorrow upon it, entered the office of the Working Women's Protective Union one day women's Protective Union one day recently.

"I want to get my money," she said to the superintendent. "Mme. —
(and she gave the name of a fashionable Fifth-avenue dressmaker) owes me $35 for work."

"Oh, yes," said the superintendent. "We know that dressmaker. You are not the first one to complain against her."

Then the dark-eyed girl told her story. Her father was an Italian artist in England. She came to this country, with her brother, and he deserted her. She used her needle to support herself in various places, and finally answered the Fifth-avenue dressmaker's advertisement for a fuisher at 170 a week. The dressmaker paid her a little at a time, but never all she owed. She wanted the $35 due her to pay her passage back to England, where her father was. The dressmaker told her that she had spoiled her work, which was not true, because she had seen the work accepted by the customers.

The superintendent, believing the girl's story, opened her batteries on the fashionable dressmaker by sending her the following:

"MADAM—: A complaint against you has been left at this office by—, who alleges that you owe her $38 which she is unable to collect. If there is any just cause why she should not receive this money, you will please make it personally known to us within three days, or else we shall be obliged to assume that your silence is an admission of the debt, and to place the matter before the court for collection. Yours respectfully, M. W. Ferrer,

"We will have that money for you tomorrow, I think," said the superintendent to the girl, and turning to the reporter she said: "That Madam has refused several times to pay similar claims, but has always done so when they, were presented by the union. We have collected about $500 from her in small sums for poor girls. Very little difficulty is experienced in collecting these claims after employers thoroughly comprehend that they have to deal with a powerful organization and not with a defenseless working woman."

"Against dressmakers, I think. Why, I know of one doing business now who has defrauded thirty girls, at least, for we have that many judgment sagainst her. She has a large house elegantly furnished with furniture obtained on the installment plan, and that we can't touch till the installments are paid. She is a very shrewd woman, and has fixed all her property so we the code, and so paid no attention to the judgment. When he was told about that clause by an officer of the law, he whistled and then paid the full amount wint costs.

No claim is too small for the union to take up. Suit for 25 cents has been brought several times, and after going through the usual process the money has been collected.

The evenes invented by these shocks.

through the usual process the money has been collected.

The excuses invented by these sharks of the workshop are very numerous, and many of them amusing. A common one is that the work which a girl has performed is unsatisfactory, though the work is taken just the same. This excuse didn't pass the other day with a nimble-fingered girl, skillful at fancy work. She had undertaken the embroidering of daisies on felt, at the magnificent pay of 11 cents each. She had finished 265 of the daisies, when she asked her employer, a woman who kept a fancy work store, for pay for them. The employer had a bad habit of finding fault with girls' work, and them deducting a certain amount from their wages.

It costs no girl anything to enlist the services of the union. That is one of the principles on which it was founded. It is a society that does a great deal of good with a very little money, not to protect idle, frivolous women, but women who work. According to the secretary's report, the union has answered since its establishment, in the time of the Civil War and up to January, 1887, 290,415 applications, furnished 48,107 employments, presented 10,123 complaints of fraud, recovered and paid to workingwomen $35,372.57, in sums averaging $3,49.

Girls of all sorts of vocations go to the office to lodge their complaints. Typewriters and stenographers go often to complain that the lawyers for whom they have been working won't pay them. But the lawyers do pay after they receive that little opening letter, which is simply an announcement that they will be dragged into court and imprisoned if they don't pay. Actresses who can't get their pay from managers of traveling companies, washerwomen

CHEATERS OF TOILERS. who can't get at the people they have washed for to collect their dues, waitwashed for to collect their dues, waiters in restaurants who get on an average of $3.50 a week when they get it at all, fan and necktie makers who more often than others work for nothing, and sewing girls in many different branches of trade are constant patrons and beneficiaries of the Women's Protective Union.

SIERRA MADRE, Oct. 12.—[Correspondence of The Times.] On Monday evening, October 10th, the Episco-pal Church situated on Baldwin avenue, was blown down. The building was comparatively a new one, having been built some two years, but was a very sham affair. No sooner was the ck discovered than the citizens bevery sham affair. No sooner was the wreck discovered than the citizens began to take active measures for the immediate building of another church, and in a very short time $1300 was subscribed. It is the purpose of the church to build an edifice costing at least $3000, with a seating capacity of 150 persons. It is public opinion that if the carpenter and architect who did the building had put in more thorough work, the wind would not have had a chance to get in its work. It surely speaks well for the public spirit and enterprise of our people that the church is to be rebuilt immediately.

Torrens Pratt, the young Scotchman, who was injured some two weeks ago while blasting on land of Mr. Kercheval by the premature explosion of a charge, is, at this writing, doing very finely. When found, Mr. Pratt was in a very bad condition, his left hand being blown off, a hole in left side causing fracture of the ribs, lower jaw broken, from which two pieces of bone were taken, and it was feared he would lose the sight of one eye, if not of both, and, in fact, was in a very dilapitated condition. Dr. Gresham, with the assistance of Drs. Jay and George of Monrovia amputated his left hand and dressed the other wounds. It has since been found that his sight will be unimpaired, and Dr. Gresham, under whose charge Mr. Pratt is, says he is doing as well as could possibly be expected.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Drury and two children, and Mrs. John Dickson and child, arrived from Concord, Mass., last evening.

AN ARAB HOUSEHOLD.

AN ARAB HOUSEHOLD.

A Grand Old Man, Ugly Women, a Very Smart Baby.

[Foreign Letter.]

He was a grand-looking old man, and looked all the more so in his picturesque Arab costume. Following him through a small lobby, we ascended a dark and narrow wooden staircase. At the top of it we found ourselves in an arched gallery running round a small court. Here a few goats were wandering about, and from behind curtained doorways numerous dark faces were peeping at us. The principal lady of the household received us at the door of the sitting-room, and soon we were surrounded by at least a dozen women and lots of children, not two of them dressed alike. The poor children were all perfectly laden with bracelets, anklets and nose rings, while a few had even nostril rings. Indeed, many of them looked queer little objects, with patterns painted on their faces in scarlet, yellow or white. Some of the women, too, had white spots painted round their ears. I thought these extremely ugly, for they resembled strongly rows of text.

One exceedingly smart baby was dressed in a vellow silk dress with a ugly, for they resembled strongly rows tet 1.

One exceedingly smart baby was dressed in a yellow silk dress with a bright crimson border, and a little cap surmounted by a tuft of feathers all the colors of the rainbow. His arms and legs were perfectly laden with jewels and his little neck smothered by rows and rows of beads, from which were suspended all sorts of charms and talismans. Several of the women were afraid to shake hands, and one little fellow with an enormous nose-ring screamed most lustily. This led to our discovering that they were afraid of my dark hands, for I had on a pair of brown gloves. It was the first time that any of them had seen a pair of gloves, and the whole party were very much astonished when I took them off to find that my hands were white.

Miss Allen produced a scrap-book, and handed it first to the old gentleman. He commenced looking at it the wrong end, as Arabs always do, and

Shortly after our arrival the servants brought in a gilt tray with two large green goblets full of sweet sirup, and we had to drink a little of this as well as three small cups of coffee, the old gentleman particularly wishing me to understand "that it was Arab custom to drink not less than three."

Unite Their Interests

Unite Their Interests.
President Eliot of Harvard College proposes, in the Journal of Education, such amendment of State Iaws that two comparatively small towns, within easy railroad journey of each other, may combine for the maintenance of a single strong high school to serve for both, rather than support, as under the present system, two weak ones.

The Difference is the Odds. The New Y rk Sun shines direct and remarks: "It seems that an officeholder's activity is not pernicious when employed in booming Grover Cleveland."

We notice that the sales of the Raymond Improvement Company in their Division No. 1 have been so rapid that they have been so rapid that they have been so bliged to subdivide more land to accommodate buyers. To this end they have placed on the market their Division No. 2, located in the southeasterly portion of their tract and in front of the Raymond Hotel. They offer some 500 feet frontage on Garfield avenue at low prices. Everyone at all ramiliar with that section knows that this avenue, already the principal drive from Alhambra to Baymond Station, over two miles long and seventy feet wide, will within the near future be thickly settied its entire length. The street cars are and all as much to complete the another and will arrive in a few days and at once be laid. Call on W. 6. Hughes, Secretary, Room 9.
